CHAS. KILAS GLAZIER

IN POLICE STATION

New York, Jan. 6.—Samuel Krainin, a glazier, who was shot by Patrolman John J. Brennan as he stood in front of the desk in a police station in Brooklyn, died today.

Krainin had been charged with demanding money from him, had beat him over the head with his club and had fired a shot into the floor in his place of business.

Other policemen pointed upon Brennan and subdued him. Brennan, who was suspended, will be arraigned charged with homicide. He admitted he had been drinking.

Aged Man With Knife Slashed Officer Bowser

John Carney, 70 Years Old, of Summer Street, Held on Charge of Assault—Used Butcher Knife on Officer Before He Was Subdued Tuesday Night.

A child's voice calling for help over the telephone at police headquarters early Tuesday evening caused Police Officer Harold Bowser and Simon Wood to be sent to No. 15 Summer street where they found John Carney, 70 years old, locked in his room in the rear of the building. Upon calling on him to come out and talk over matters, Carney accepted the invitation by swinging open the door and leaping out, armed with a butcher knife, with a blade honed to razor edge.

Swinging the knife Carney caught Officer Bowser on the thumb, inflicting a deep cut. As Carney was seized by the officer he grasped Bowser's other hand and gripping the middle finger bent it back until it snapped before he was finally subdued and taken to police headquarters.

Went on Rampage.

The house at No. 15 Summer street is occupied by Joseph Haines and family who occupy the larger part of the house. In the rear, in two rooms, resides Carney. Tuesday afternoon he had been drinking heavily, according to the police, and went on a rampage causing Emma, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. Haines, to telephone for help.

When the officers arrived at the house they were warned by the Haines family that Carney was in an angry mood and dangerous. Carney is short and stocky and possesses great strength in spite of his advanced age.

Retained From Using Clubs.

Owing to his extreme age neither Bowser or Wood desired to use their night sticks as Carney rushed out of the house which explains why Bowser was cut before Carney was subdued. Bowser rapped on the door of Carney's apartments and told him he was an officer and desired to talk with him. Carney using vile language warned the policemen away, saying he would kill them if they did not leave him alone.

Carney Swung Knife.

Bowser again invited him out to talk things over and Carney finally swung open the door and rushed out. As he appeared in the door, Officer Wood leaped on him and pinned him against the door jamb while Bowser grasped for his arm. As Bowser did so, Carney swung his arm and the knife cut Bowser in the hand inflicting a deep wound on the thumb. Then Carney managed to grasp the officer's hand and bent back the middle finger until it snapped.

He was finally subdued and taken to police headquarters and when informed that he was to spend the night in the county jail he began fighting and it required the united efforts of Officers Wood, Martin and Leonard to throw him into the police Franklin and take him to the county jail.

Wounds Dressed at Hospital.

In the meantime Bowser was sent to the Kingston City Hospital to have his wounds dressed. When he reached police headquarters his glove was filled with blood from the wounded thumb. At the hospital Dr. Van Gaasbeek, who is acting police surgeon while Dr. Frederick Snyder is in Florida, dressed the thumb and placed the broken finger in splints. This morning Carney was arraigned before Judge Shufeldt in police court on a charge of assault in the second degree and the hearing was adjourned for one week and bail fixed at $2,000.

Officer Bowser will be incapacitated for duty for several weeks owing to his injuries.

Minute Men's Leader Writes

Calm and Temperate Statement of Differences and Origin Thereof—Government Needs No Invisible Empire.

The following letter, received from the Ulster county head of the Independent Klan of America, is the first calm and temperate statement, requiring no omission of libelous epithets and criminal charges, that has been received from advocates of either side in the K. K. K. and I. K. A. controversy:

New Paltz, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1926. Editor Kingston Freeman.

Dear Sir:

In the issue of the Semi-Weekly Kingston Freeman of January 1st, 1926, under the heading "The Outcasts Are Excoriated," I notice a letter written by a Klansman of Orange county, the purport of which is that the anti-organization, presumably the I. K. A., is made up of the unscrupulous outcasts of the K. K. K. Viewpoint makes at times vast differences. Undoubtedly in the view of the British the members of the Boston Tea Party were unscrupulous when they mixed tea and sea water as a protest against taxation without representation.

When conditions were found in the K. K. K. which amounted to taxation without representation and the establishment of a Dictatorship which makes the Italian Fascist and Russian Soviet pale into insignificance, Americans true to the traditions of their forefathers arose. In protest and to paraphrase Patrick Henry, "If that be unscrupulous, make the most of it."

The I. K. A. is composed of men who believe that the forefathers built wisely when they founded this Republic and who are determined to give the best that in them lies to the proposition of the immortal Lincoln that "Government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

That as a Nation we are confronted by problems there is no denial but to undertake a solution of those problems by Wizardry and Dictatorship would result in nothing but the husks of a once glorious nation being left, the meat of liberty would have vanished.

Therefore after practically one hundred and fifty years of experiment during which our country has made great progress the I. K. A. feels that self government has been successful enough to warrant its continuance unhampered by any invisible Empire.

Yours respectfully,

The four names that will be submitted to the fire board are: Harold A. Sanford, 149 Hunter street, 57 1/2 per cent.

George D. Matthews, 220 East Union street, 56 1/2 per cent.

Joseph M. Hallinan, 55 Broadway, 55 per cent.

The other two names on the eligible list of the civil service commission are:

1926 Legislature Tackles Task of Many Problems

Reorganization of State Government Looms Larger Than Any Other Problem But Taxation Will Also Furnish Important Subject for Discussion and Action.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Faced with the difficult task of reorganizing the state government, the 1926 session of the Legislature got under way at noon today.

For the third consecutive year, Governor Al Smith went before a joint session of the Senate and Assembly and read his annual message. (The principal parts of Governor Smith's message will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.)

Following the election of officers, who were nominated last night, the lawmakers recessed until next Monday night when the session will really get down to business.

Most Issues As They Arise.

For the first time in years, the Republicans who will be firmly in control of the Legislature started off without a legislative program. Speaker McGinnies, Republican leader of the lower house, said his party would deal with the important issues as they come.

"We had a program last year but we didn't seem to get anywhere with it so we decided to deal with matters as they come before us," said Speaker McGinnies.

Smith-Hughes Battle Possible.

As the session got under way the belief was expressed by many old time political leaders at the Capitol that the 1926 session might result in a political battle of far reaching proportions between Governor Smith and former secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes.

Mr. Hughes is chairman of the committee which is planning legislation which will carry out the constitutional amendment adopted at the last election calling for a consolidation of the state's 187 scattered bureaus and agencies into 20 main departments. As chairman of this committee, it is expected that the former secretary of state will really play the role of Republican leader in the state for the next few months.

Thinks Short Session Possible.

Governor Smith said today he could not see why the present session should be unusually long if the legislative leaders would get down to business as soon as possible. The Governor said he would cooperate with the Republicans in every possible way to bring about a real reorganization of the state government. It is not expected the Hughes committee will be ready to submit its report to the lawmakers before February 1, if then.

Morris in Close Touch.

State Chairman George K. Morris said today he intended to be at the Capitol most of the winter so as to keep in close touch with the Republican legislative leaders.

Republicans For Tax Reduction.

Republican leaders went into the session with a determination to bring about a reduction, if possible, in the direct state tax. They pointed out that if the direct tax could be reduced one-half mill it would save real estate taxpayers approximately $3,500,000. They, of course, will favor a 25 per cent reduction in the state income tax, but they would like to be certain first that the direct tax can be cut.

Governor's Message Shorter.

Governor Smith's annual message was not so long as the one of last year. The members of both houses listened intently while the governor, standing at the speaker's desk in the assembly chamber, read it.

Prediction of Long Session.

Many at the Capitol have predicted that if the 1926 session can complete its work by Decoration Day it will be lucky. Other years the session has closed either the latter part of March or the first part of April.

Differ on Reorganization Details.

There is some difference between the Governor and the Republican leaders as to when the reorganization of the government should take effect. Governor Smith feels, his friends said today, that the reorganization plan should go into effect the first of next July, when the state's fiscal year comes to an end. Republican leaders, on the other hand, believe the reorganization should be made effective on January 1, next year. In this connection, Speaker McGinnies said:

"I feel that the reorganization should take place the first of next year so that the incoming Governor, whether he be a Republican or a Democrat, could appoint the heads of the 20 departments."

Smith Might Retain Officials.

Governor Smith, it was learned today, has told the Republican leaders, however, that if they will make the reorganization effective July 1 he will not remove any of the present state officials who would be affected by the change if their terms do not expire next year.

Money Budget Probable.

There was every indication today that the state's budget for the coming fiscal year will total upwards of $180,000,000. Last year the total appropriations were $165,000,000.

Reduce State Income Tax.

One of the first bills that was introduced today was introduced by Assemblyman Phelps, Republican

Kidnaps Albany Man in His Car, Man Escapes Here

Joseph E. Mulville of Albany Reported to Local Police of Being Kidnapped and Rushed to Kingston in His Own Car—Makes Escape on Albany Avenue—Alarm Sent Out.

Joseph E. Mulville of No. 14 Summit avenue, Albany, reported to the police by telephone this morning of his escape from the clutches of three men who at the point of a gun had held him up as he was driving his Dodge car through the streets in Albany shortly after midnight. Leaping into the car the men forced Mulville to drive them toward Kingston.

At the Albany Avenue Garage the car was stopped to have five gallons of gas placed in the tank, and Mulville feeling that he was not being closely watched by the kidnappers, leaped out of the car and made his escape to the nearest telephone, where he sent in a message giving the car number and asking that the kidnappers be apprehended.

When the kidnappers saw that Mulville had escaped they stepped on the gas and made their get away.

Sergeant Phelan, who received the phone call from Mulville, sent out a general alarm to all the morning men, but the kidnappers had gotten safely out of Kingston. The sergeant also telephoned a warning to the Newburgh and Poughkeepsie police departments asking them to watch for the car.

Mulville later appeared at police headquarters where he repeated his story and at the sergeant's suggestion he went on to Newburgh in the hope that the men may have been captured there.

Search for Cell Mate of R. B. Scott

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—A notorious forger, former cell mate of Robert B. Scott, alias John C. Redding, was being sought by police today for questioning in connection with the report that Scott had confessed to him that he and not his brother, Russell Scott, had fired the shot that ended the life of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, who was killed during a holdup staged by the Scott brothers.

This rumor and another report that a woman named "Betty" who was said to have fled to San Francisco with Scott after the murder of Maurer, had anything to do with disclosing the identity of the Chicago man, were denied by the police here.

Meanwhile, at San Quentin prison, where Scott is being held, the man who is booked as John C. Redding, continues to be silent.

The prison parole board of California will consider Scott's case Friday night. Scott will undoubtedly be paroled to the Chicago authorities. It was said.

Supervisors Elect Scott Chairman; Others Re-elected

Democratic Supervisor from Shawangunk Votes With Republicans in Organizing New Board for 1926-27—Board Has Democratic Majority of One.

The Ulster county board of supervisors elected at the November election organized at the court house Tuesday night by the election of Joseph Scott of the town of Shawangunk as chairman and the re-election of Henry R. DeWitt as clerk. John W. Eckert as county attorney and Dr. E. H. Loughran as jail physician.

The new board contains 17 Democrats and 16 Republicans. Supervisor Scott is a Democrat. The election Tuesday night has a parallel in the history of Ulster county supervisors in the re-election of Everett Fowler as clerk some years ago when the Republicans had a majority of one in the board.

The general Democratic plan as disclosed in the nominations provided for John C. Shults of Saugerties for chairman, Jacob V. Merrihue of Olive for clerk, Judge Harry E. Schirick of Kingston for county attorney and Dr. John G. O'Leary of Kingston for jail physician. The plan also provided that Eugene B. Carey of the insurance firm of Brunner & Carey should be the active assistant clerk of the board.

There had been much discussion during the past three weeks regarding the election of county attorney, which had been offered to Judge John G. Van Etten and Judge Schirick, both of whom were most anxious that the other should be selected. Immediately after election Thomas F. Coughlin had been prominently mentioned.

In the voting for officers and in most of the matters which came before the board Tuesday night, the vote stood 17 to 16, Chairman Scott voting with the Republicans.

Board Organizes.

Mr. DeWitt called the roll at 7:40 o'clock, and the sixteen Republicans answered present. It was stated that the Democratic members were in caucus and Supervisor Schantz moved that a committee of two be appointed to notify the absentees that the roll had been called and the members were ready to proceed with business. Supervisors Schantz and Dushier were named as such a committee by Clerk DeWitt, and a few minutes later the Democrats filed into the room, which held a number of members of the Democratic party who had come to hear the proceedings.

After roll call, which showed all of the 33 members present, the first order of business was the nomination and election of a chairman. Supervisor Shaw, Democrat, of New Paltz, placed in nomination Supervisor John C. Shults of Saugerties. Supervisor Schantz of Lloyd nominated Joseph P. Scott of Shawangunk.

Board Elects Officers.

The result of the vote was: Scott, 17; Shults, 16. The Republicans numbering 16 voted for Mr. Scott, and he voted for himself, and he was declared elected chairman for 1926-27. The 16 Democrats voted for Mr. Shults. Supervisors Schantz and Dushier were appointed a committee to escort Mr. Scott to the chair.

Chairman Scott announced the next order of business

BABY COWBOY SLAYS FATHER WITH "TOY" GUN

Bullet Ends Parrot's Life as He Praises Child at Play.

New York.—All evening long three-year-old Ozzie's Manos rode through the house on a broomstick-horse, bravely clicking two cap pistols and snuffing out the lives of numberless imaginary Indians. He cried delightedly:

"Papa, I'm a cowboy!"
"Isn't that nice?"
"Papa, look!—you're an Indian. I'm going to shoot you!"

A second later the father, Anostatos Manos, dropped mortally wounded with a bullet in his heart.

The child had discarded a toy pistol and picked up his father's .32-caliber revolver.

Mother is Shocked.
The mother, in the kitchen, screamed. The three-year-old child, shocked, dropped the smoking gun and started to cry.

"Mamma, I'm hurt!"
The mother rushed in and carried her husband to the bed.

Patrolman Connaughton of the West Thirtieth street police station, hearing the shot, rushed to the house.

Within a half-hour Anostatos Manos, forty-three, a chestnut peddler, had died at Bellevue hospital.

Physicians telephoned the news to the Tenth avenue home. The stricken wife fainted. The child, unable to realize what had happened, laughed. Held Great Fun.

The Gun Exploded.

He thought it had been great fun. All evening he had been proudly exhibiting his two cap pistols. They clicked and looked like regular revolvers.

He romped through the house, "slaying" all who crossed his path.

Tiring finally, he wandered around looking for new experience.

His father's .32-caliber revolver lay on a box nearby. It looked familiar. This made three guns he had now.

Attempting to imitate his former play, he looked around for the enemy.

He saw his father.
"Oh, papa, look!"
He pulled the trigger. The gun exploded.

That was all. Except that police are in a quandary. They do not know what disposition to make of the child, who answers all questions and discusses in detail what happened.

Stork Leaves Triplets; Electrician Is Shocked

New York.—Louis Brodsky, master electrician, was upset when he was obliged to work, knowing that his wife had just given birth to a baby boy. Brodsky was expected to buy the baby a pair of shoes and some other things, and it was necessary to work without taking time out.

Needless to say, his mind was not on his work at all. The Brodskys already had two children, and Louis congratulated himself on the birth of the third. The nurse had telephoned him at the Broadway theater in Long Island City, "Louis," cried the nurse in glee, "it's a boy!"

"Yes, of course, and I am very happy," replied the electrician.

"No, you don't know," contradicted the nurse. "It's another boy—it's twins, Louis. Ain't that grand?"

Louis stared that it was, but he dropped the receiver on the hook a trifle dazed. But the telephone was ringing again.

"I know all about it," said the electrician. "Another boy."

"You don't know," said the voice. "It's a girl. It's triplets, Louis, two boys and a girl."

Brodsky rushed home in a cab.

Thought Dead

Philadelphia.—Given up as dead by his family, after he had disappeared while on a trip to Cuba Island four months ago, Samuel Tushnet, thirty-five years old, a Brooklyn druggist, was located in the private sanatorium of Dr. W. L. Randall, at Chestnut Hill. He was identified at the sanatorium by Michael Reed, a former business associate.

Piece of Paper Paid for Marital Blessing

Washington.—A young man who will give a preacher a blank strip of paper for marrying him, will sooner or later give his bride Confederate money for her weekly budget, in the opinion of Rev. P. Rowland Wagner, Rockville's marrying person. And he has reason for opinion on the subject.

A few nights ago Rev. Mr. Wagner married a "nice looking" Washington couple, bestowed his cleric blessings and received an envelope in return. When he opened it, after the couple's departure, it contained a blank strip of paper the size of a $5 bill.

Of the approximate 2,000 marital loops he has formed, though, that is the first time Mr. Wagner was ever so treated, he says.

COACH DRIVERS BATTLE WOLVES

One Man's Throat Torn in Long Fight.

Mexico City.—The state of Durango, in Mexico, besides being notorious for having the greatest number of scorpions in the world, is known and dreaded for its wolf herds.

Hungry-mad herds of the man-eating beasts rove over the desert stretches of the state and hide in the barren mountain passes, falling on possible human or animal prey which may appear.

Only recently a herd of a hundred of the gaunt animals fell on two stages, each drawn by eight well-fed mules. A battle royal resulted on the parched surface of the desert between mules, their drivers, and the wolves.

At the end of a four-hour battle by moonlight, dawn showed one man dead, but four of the sixteen mules alive, and some thirty or forty wolves ripped to pieces by mule hoofs or pierced by rifle bullets.

The stages were driven by five hardy Mexican cowboys engaged in carrying supplies to isolated villages in the barren waste. It was while they were camping at night that the wolves attacked.

The man killed had taken refuge under one of the vehicles and was firing at the wolves from a prostrate position, when one of the angry animals leaped on him and tore open his throat. His four companions were able to protect themselves from the savage attack of wolves while firing their rifles.

Train Suction Picks Up Child, Hurts Her to Death

Sunbury, Pa.—Mary Dworak, eight, died before reaching the Shamokin state hospital after the suction of a passing passenger train on the Philadelphia & Reading railway had picked her up and hurled her to the ground, fracturing her skull.

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dworak of Continental, a small mining hamlet in Coal township, had attended Sunday school and was on her way home.

People of that mining village must walk along the railroad tracks to get from the highway to their home. The child had reached the top of the embankment from the highway and had waited for a train on the track nearest her to pass by.

As the last car went by she stepped over the tracks not knowing that a passenger train was coming on the other tracks. As it whirled by the suction picked up her body and hurled it five feet away. The only marks she bore were on the side of the face caused by falling on the cinders.

Stole Charity Money; Repents; Gives It Back

Winnipeg, Man.—The bird's claim that "there is so much good in the worst of us," has found tangible expression in the act of a highwayman. Recently the highwayman held up and robbed C. V. Combes while on his way home with $225 of the proceeds of a concert held for the benefit of a fund for the poor children of Winnipeg. A few days later a burly, shabbily clothed man called at the office of the concern sponsoring the campaign for funds, left a package with the cashier, and quickly departed. In the package was found the money and Mr. Combes' watch.

Also inside was a note saying: "Bury me as I did the job. We didn't know what money it was. Spent $2 before reading."

Democrats May Contest Legality Of Organization

Supervisor Bilyou of Fifth Ward failed to swear in before taking part in organization meeting of Supervisors Tuesday.—Democrats May Take Matter to Court.

Supervisor William A. Bilyou of the Fifth ward, who was elected to succeed himself in the board of supervisors at the November election, neglected the formality of "swearing in" before City Clerk A. A. Styles at the city hall before attending the organization meeting of the board of supervisors Tuesday evening at the city hall. This morning Supervisor Bilyou called at the city hall and swore in.

The fact that Supervisor Bilyou failed to take the constitutional oath of office before assuming his duties has led the Democratic leaders to consider strongly the question of taking the matter to court and testing the legality of the proceedings of the board of supervisors on Tuesday evening.

Some of the leaders of Democracy when interviewed this morning stated that there was every probability that the legality of the meeting would be tested in the courts but the Democrats interviewed did not wish to be quoted.

According to the opinion of the leaders of Democracy, Supervisor Bilyou was disqualified from participating in the proceedings of the board of supervisors until he had taken his oath of office.

The neglect on the part of Supervisor Bilyou to "swear in" was due to his illness. When he was nominated by the Republicans of the Fifth ward to succeed himself he was confined to his home by illness and was unable to canvass the ward on his own behalf. Since his election his health has not been of the best, which fact had kept him from visiting the city hall and taking the oath of office.

Berlin Wants Father's Blessing

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 6.—Irving Berlin, America's foremost composer of syncopation, and his bride, the former Miss Elin Mackay, daughter of Clarence Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph Company, plan to return to New York city today or tomorrow to meet the bride's father.

This became known today when it was learned that Mackay communicated with the honeymoon couple by telephone, taking his first step toward meeting Berlin.

Mackay had bitterly opposed the marriage of his daughter, a Roman Catholic, to the brilliant young Jew, who rose from poverty in the lower East Side of New York to fame and fortune as a composer of modern music and songs. Mackay had been reported as confiding to a close relative that he "will never forgive or forget" and that Elin had left his home forever.

It was also reported that he would cut off Elin from the $30,000,000 Mackay estate. Berlin, however, is a millionaire in his own right. Mackay's chief objection to the match, it was said, was based on his belief that it could not last because of the difference in the manner of living of his daughter and her husband.

Despite the father's attitude, the 22 year old bride is "supremely happy," she told reporters. "Of course," she remarked, "I hope father will forgive me."

Berlin was anxious, too, to receive the blessing of his father-in-law. "The greatest wedding present I could get," he had said, would be his blessing.

Danger to Build Without Permit

The Zoning Board of Appeals met at the common council chambers at the city hall for its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon. There were no cases for its consideration, and the board adjourned until the first Tuesday in February.

The attention of the board has been brought to the fact that a number of people have built frame garages without the permission of the board of public works, and within the fire district of the city. This is forbidden under serious penalties. In addition to the penalties the courts have held that where a structure so erected burns and the fire is communicated to other property, the person erecting the burning building is responsible to the owner of other property destroyed for its full amount, and that the insurance company insuring a policy upon the other burned property also can recover from the person constructing the building without proper permission.

Would Spend Over Two Million for Poughkeepsie Bridge

Governor Smith's Plan For Spending First Ten Millions Would Be For Construction Only—How He Would Spend It.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Governor Smith, in his annual message to the legislature today, suggested a plan for spending the first $10,000,000 of the $100,000,000 public works bond issue, adopted at the last session.

Under the bond proposal, the legislature is authorized to appropriate $10,000,000 for ten successive years, the money to be expended for permanent public improvements. In the proposal submitted by the governor he pointed out that every cent of the first $10,000,000 would be spent for construction and "not one cent for salaries."

If the law makers follow the governor's suggestions the first $10,000,000 will be spent as follows: Mid-Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie, $2,200,000; State office building at Albany, $1,000,000; Teachers' college at Albany, $850,000; State college of agriculture, Cornell, $1,250,000; Sing Sing prison, $2,775,000; Additional land at Creedmoor hospital, $500,000; Matteawan state hospital, $750,000; State laboratory at Albany, $675,000.

The governor suggested that the law makers make a direct appropriation to pay for "personal service" in connection with the spending of the $10,000,000.

THE REACTIONS FROM VIEWING FRENCH COLLECTIONS ARE PERHAPS MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

After reviewing, oh ever so many of the French collections, one is inclined to the following reactions... and goes along mentally mumbling—"must remember to have something with a cape"—"better plan the exchequer to include a tailored suit"—"mustn't forget that shoes have to be found to match or harmonize with everything"—"it's safe" to repeat in colors than to follow a natural bent and sample them all." The colloquy continues—"bad enough to have to get a hat for each, but shoes!"—"oh, well, don't have to worry about stockings; they have not undergone any change to mention"—and so on. It does not do at all to tally forth these days and pick up a hat here and coat somewhere else. One plays the game with little pieces of material, which must be matched, and, incidentally, wielding a sample out of a couture takes all the finesse of a diplomat.

Fortunately the French eye for color is very true; if yours is not, and their sense of what color is best for you, can safely be relied upon. For instance, madame announces that she has a flit robe, which she would like to have made over palest yellow chiffon. "No, no, no," says the couturier firmly, "madame's lace must be made over blue, blue satin"—this after you have explained perhaps that you have no leaning toward green though you concede its tremendous vogue. Usually she is right, and you come to her way of thinking, but it is at first disconcerting to madame! Pastel blues are regarded with great favor for spring and for the Southland, though candor compels the admission that very little blue is worn about Paris just now. White, black, green, red and pale pink are the color scheme of the average dance floor, but blue is discussed with confidence.

LOVE WILL NOT SPONSOR CLEAN BODIES BILL.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Senator William L. Love, Democrat, of Brooklyn, will not sponsor the so-called clean bodies bill at this session of the legislature. The clean bodies bill was defeated at the last two sessions of the legislature. "I feel that my bill of last year has resulted in the determination of many publishers to see to it that nothing really objectionable in the form of fiction is published," said Senator Love. "For this reason I will not offer the measure at this session."

BALKANS UNDER BANDIT SPELL

Daring of These Outlaws Is Celebrated in Song and Story.

Vienna.—Vienna was still thrilled by the spectacular trial of Menela Cernicliu, a young Macedonian girl, who, at the opera last May, killed Todor Penizza, a notorious Balkan bandit chief, when news issued from Greece that the Brabant and Yugoslav brigand bands that for years terrorized the inhabitants of Mount Olympus, had been wiped out. The heads of the leaders, on which a total of 10,000,000 drachmas had been set, were taken to Katerini, a provincial capital, and exhibited to the public.

Reports of Balkan outlaws appear so frequently in the newspapers that a casual reader might conclude that southeastern Europe was largely populated by brigands. He would not be far wrong, for in that part of the world banditry is an ancient institution, with firm roots in the customs of the people, and if every one is not a bandit, all are at least potential bandits.

"Once upon a time there was a bandit." It is with this phrase that most of the bedtime stories in the Balkans begin. The bandit is also the hero of innumerable folk-songs. At the village feasts, when the wine starts flowing, tales of his strength and bravery are chanted to the monotonous tones of reed pipe and drum.

The boys of Sofia, Monastir, Saloniki and Athens do not enviously read of superdetectors like Nick Carter or superathletes like Dick Merrill. The thin, paper-backed volumes which they cleverly hide in their geographical and readers and ravenously devour while an unsuspecting teacher thinks they are following the lesson contain stories of superbandits. Athletes like Babe Ruth, Red Grange, Jack Dempsey and Babe Nurni would mean nothing to the Balkan youth who dreams of emulating the exploits of such men as Todor Alexandroff, Condor, who rose from a comitadjil chief, fighting the Turks and Bulgars in Macedonia to minister of war in Greece, and Todor Alexandroff, although only a bandit leader, made and unmade prime ministers in Bulgaria.

Some are Political Healers. In truth, banditry runs high as a profession in the Balkans. Its practitioners win power, wealth, food and sometimes death. They are ubiquitous and of two distinct types—political and nonpolitical. The former are usually members of revolutionary committees and are called comitadjis, which means committeemen. They are especially active in border provinces and usually receive secret support from the various Balkan governments. There are different groups with different political ends, but all plunder unmercifully the native peasants, shepherds and merchants.

In many parts of Macedonia they carry on an underground government, levying taxes, dispensing justice and conscripting recruits. Those who refuse to submit to their dictates are punished by instant death. Therefore they inspire fear in the hearts of the populace. An experience I had on my way across the Balkans to Turkey vividly demonstrates this fact.

At Trieste in the spring of 1920 I boarded the Orient Express for Constantinople. The country we rode through still bore the signs of war. The bridges were blown up and temporary structures of wood had been built to take the place of the old steel or stone. Passengers were ordered to get out and walk across these, as there was doubt that the trestles would bear up the loaded train.

On the second day out of Trieste, when we had left Nish behind and were passing through the heart of Macedonia, the passengers were just rising from their berths when the train suddenly stopped. My companion, an Armenian merchant of Saloniki, looked out the window and gazed down along the track ahead. He immediately drew in his head, and greatly excited, shouted, "Comitadjis!"

Hurriedly he took a wallet from his coat pocket and hid it under the mattress of his berth, and opening a suitcase he removed a packet of papers which he threw into the wastepaper of the wash basin.

A Knock on the Door.

Wondering what had so terrified my fellow-traveler, I looked out myself and saw massed before the locomotive a group of men in ragged uniforms and armed with rifles—unshaven and fierce looking fellows. I recalled reading only a few weeks before that the Orient Express had been held up in Macedonia by a band of Bulgarian comitadjis, the passengers robbed and a number of Serbs taken off and held for ransom; and I was silently thankful that, except for a few French francs to pay for meals in the dining car, all my funds were in a letter of credit negotiable only by myself; that my watch was of the dollar sort, and that I was not a promising candidate for ransom.

The train began to move, the comitadjis scrambled aboard. Train-robbing tactics in Macedonia, I decided, differ from those in vogue in America. With memories of Jesse James and the more recent impression of the movies told me that the standard American method was to line up the passengers along the track and go through their pockets. Also a special detachment of bandits, I recalled, usually went

A Young Wife Learns the Truth!

A True Story Based on the Disillusionment of Mrs. Crisp As Set Forth in Her Letter Which Appears on This Page

MRS. Irene Crisp of Kawende, Manitoba, gasped in amazement when she saw her husband reading True Story Magazine. She had been led to believe that it was not a refined magazine, that in places it was indecent, if not immoral. And now to find the man she had married, reading "that awful magazine."

At her exclamation of shocked remonstrance he handed her the book saying: "My dear! Read every story in this magazine and then prove to me that a single one is immoral. It contains nothing but the experiences of human beings like ourselves. If we can learn by the experience of others, isn't that much better than having to go through it ourselves?" Taking his advice, she read it.

Search as she would she could not find a single word that was objectionable. On the contrary each contained a moral so powerfully driven home as never to be forgotten. Never had she been so entertained, so deeply moved, so wonderfully instructed. Today among the two and one half millions who read True Story none are more faithful in their support than Mrs. Crisp.

Yet there are still people who believe as this wife and mother once did. This is unfortunate, since an examination of any issue of True Story Magazine will quickly reveal its helpful, inspiring character.

Whether it be a story of joy or sorrow, of love or hate, of triumph or failure, it points a lesson of unforgettable vividness and dramatic power.

For Example, Take the February Issue

If Betty had not made the tragic mistake of seeking success at the price of her soul, she would never have had the terrible experience she frankly describes under the title, "Heart-Break" in February True Story Magazine.

Or again, if Doris had known how easily a young girl may be fooled by men—she would have avoided the dangerous situation in which she found herself. Her own story, "Her Cautious Lover," appears in February True Story Magazine.

Yet these are but two of the seventeen big, helpful, inspiring features that have been brought together for you in the February issue of True Story Magazine.

any daring adventurer could have had a kingdom in the Aegean for the courage and skill to seize it.

In the fifteenth century, before the Turks won control of the whole eastern Mediterranean, all the islands in this corner of the world, as well as the greater part of what is now Greece, were ruled by so-called barons, counts, dukes and princes, who usually were nothing but glorified brigands, often fugitives from justice in their native lands in western Europe.

Still earlier many a baron had who had come to the Levant as a Crusader remained to rule over an equal lot or a ruddy peninsula. And even under the Turk a few islands could succeed in maintaining their supremacy in remote places where the Sultan ruled nominally, but where his officials never penetrated to return alive.

This tradition of banditry, built up through centuries, still lives in the Aegean, although the modern bandit is seldom able to carry out an exploit in the grand manner. The Ottoman sultans succeeded in holding them for only a few days. Two Greek brigands were sent from Athens to over them. Faced with sea-borne gun, the brigands were forced to take to the islands, where they had been driven on their first day in power.—New York Times.

Unhappiness in Wake of Avoidable Worry

The thing which causes us to worry is either something that can be remedied, or can't. The thing to do is to look it squarely in the face. Swallow an unpleasant truth or so if necessary, but get down to the issue. In the advice of the Montreal Family Herald.

If the cause cannot be changed, there is only one thing to do—don't think about it. Force yourself to shut it out of your consciousness. Just close your mind to it, and let the blow fall where and when it will. Since you can't stop it, you might as well save your strength for the dash.

But most of our worries are avoidable. We worry because we suddenly think, two hours after we left the house, that we maybe didn't turn off the electric iron in the kitchen, or because we have a house full of company in the evening and nothing seems ready, or because the children won't eat their vegetables, but will fill up on candy, or any number of small things that are the result of our own careless habit or our imagination to day.

Provision should be made for such things by direct appropriations to the proper departments so that all of the one hundred million dollars authorized by the people may be put into permanent and lasting improvements."

Regional planning necessitated by public works improvements, and park and highway plans.

Reorganization of the Government.

STATE OF NEW YORK
Executive Chamber
Albany, January 6, 1926
To the Legislature

As we start on a new chapter in the history of our State, it is fitting and proper that we express our satisfaction with the progress we have already made. Cross currents of opinion and conflict of interests make progress difficult to achieve. The State of New York must expect to pay some price for its marvelous growth and expansion. The penalty is in the difficulty and delay in solving with satisfaction to ourselves the varied and difficult problems of government constantly pressing us for solution.

There always exists the temptation to seek the line of least resistance by caring for today and letting tomorrow take care of itself. Experience has demonstrated that this policy in the past has aggravated the problems of today and added to the difficulty of their solution. We should, however, find encouragement in the great interest in the processes of their government displayed by the people at the last general election when important and fundamental issues involving the modernization of the machinery of government were widely discussed throughout the State. When the verdict was rendered the people decided that the present structure and financing of the government itself were worn out and should be re-cast to meet the present day needs. That was healthy for the State and a healthy demonstration of the soundness of democratic government in that interest and attention were aroused and sound judgment exercised by the people themselves when they took the necessary steps provided for in the organic law to place the State in position to meet the changing needs of the time.

Everywhere the demand grows more insistent that government be placed upon a sounder business basis than has heretofore obtained. The problems of government which permit of political division are very few, but, unfortunately, partisan advantage is sought by injecting politics into what should be the strictly business questions of the State which ought really to be solved only on the basis of what is best for the State and not what is best for political parties. Nothing is more deadly to progress than to have either of the great political parties conceive it to be its duty to prevent its political opponents from achieving at the hands of the people of the State the credit that would grow from a record of progress.

Carrying out a strictly business handling of our State affairs and in accordance with the plan laid down in my last annual message, I shall again regard myself as the head of a great corporation and shall deal with this message as if it were a report to the directors and stockholders.

I desire first of all to emphasize the necessity for making the adjustments needed to carry out the mandates of the people so definitely expressed at the last election. These have to do with the business of the State in its every detail. I will also present recommendations concerning the welfare activities of the State and matters which I believe to be entirely political in nature and not in the strict sense of the word a part of the business administration of the State government.

Financial Condition of the State and Taxation.
I am required by the Constitution to report to you at this time the financial condition of the State and I shall endeavor to present it in such a manner that it may be readily understood whether road is an accounting house or in the home.

For the management of its financial affairs, the State deals with the twelve months that begin on July first and end the following June thirtieth. On June 30, 1925, the State of New York owed to its bondholders $718,471,000.00. To meet that indebtedness, the State had in its various funds $30,500,477.00.

These various funds will have annual contributions made to them out of the State's income. Inasmuch as that portion of the income which is not paid in the form of taxes is estimated and the Comptroller estimates our income for that period as follows:

General property tax	$22,520,472.07
Direct State tax	622,727.94
Court and stenographer's tax	1,152,322.26
Armory tax	$20,354,422.27
Special taxes
Corporation tax	$46,750,000.00
Organization of corporations	2,000,000.00
Personal income tax	22,000,000.00
Insurance premium tax	1,750,000.00
Laboratory tax	25,000,000.00
Stock transfer tax	9,000,000.00
Mortgage tax	5,000,000.00
Motor vehicle tax	$2,250,000.00
Boxing exhibit tax	200,000.00
Motion picture tax	200,000.00
Arrears, tax sales, redemptions	150,000.00
	$134,300,000.00
Other revenues and receipts	9,000,000.00
Total estimated revenue and receipts	$173,664,422.27

The Comptroller further estimates that on July 1, 1926, we will have in the General Fund a cash balance of $43,485,405.53.

Inasmuch as we will charge ourselves on the side of appropriations with certain immediately available ones, in order to balance the books, we must establish what part of the immediately available appropriations will be expended prior to July 1, 1926. This expenditure will come out of current funds or receipts from the State's various sources of income during the first half of the calendar year of 1926. Based on our experience in the past, this is estimated at $22,000,000.00.

That amount must be added to the General Fund Cash Balance as of July 1, 1926, because it is obvious that if no immediately available appropriations were made by the Legislature of 1925, that sum would go from income into cash balance. Therefore, the estimated cash balance on July 1, 1926, can be set forth at $65,485,405.53.

However, it is estimated that there will be carried over into the next fiscal year commitments by appropriations of prior years amounting in round figures to $9,120,000.00.

Leaving an estimated surplus on July 1, 1926, after providing for all prior commitments, of $7,365,005.53.

This might well be referred to as the State's free clear money in the surplus account against which no person has any claim.

Adding the estimated revenues and receipts for the next fiscal year, as I have detailed them above, to this surplus $7,365,005.53, we will have total estimated available resources for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1926, against which appropriations may be made, amounting to $201,020,422.27.

Continuance of Income and Real Property Tax Reduction.
The Legislature of 1925 appropriated a total of $169,719,522.75. Making allowances for necessary increases in the appropriations for the Department of Education because of the passage of the Rural School Relief Bill, if the remaining other appropriations are kept at or even near the appropriations of last year, I am satisfied that we can continue this year the relief we gave to income taxpayers and real property taxpayers at the last two sessions of the Legislature.

I am satisfied that the financial condition of both Houses of the Legislature will give careful attention to this statement, as well as to all requests for appropriation of the State's money.

Taxation.
Although it is difficult to secure it to be viewed as such, taxation is an economic rather than a political problem. It is essential to the material welfare of all of the citizens of the State that we have wise and just laws, those which will distribute the cost of government as evenly as may be according to the ability of the taxpayer to meet the impact of the levy, always keeping in mind that that tax is best whose burden is the least, and the exaction of which results in the least harmful effects on business and industry, saving those "wars in the bread room."

The financing of the State is in conformity with a business handling of our State affairs. It becomes my duty to present to you for your consideration in turn, the needs of the various departments of our business and welfare, outlining our resources, such as Water Power, Forests and Agriculture.

Water Power.
No resource that the State possesses today has been so neglected as our great water power. We continue to generate from coal electrical energy for light, heat and power, particularly in our great centers of industry, while countless millions of cubic feet of water, capable of generating electric power, are running to waste. No private business institution in the world would tolerate such a condition. We have allowed nearly all of our natural resources to fall into private hands for private development and private profit. Water power is the last one still in the hands of all the people. Present returns from State-Owned Water Power.

Aside from the benefits that will come to the people of the State from water power development, it is good business for the State itself. During the past year revenues to the State from the use of surplus canal waters have been materially increased and it is worth noting that the rental of the power developed by the State itself at Crescent Dam and Vischer's Ferry represents ten per cent upon the State's investment. All of our experience clearly demonstrates that we can make use of these great natural water power resources for the benefit of the people and can do it with financial profit to the State itself.

Consolidation of the Existing Water Power Agencies.
Reorganization of the government makes necessary the abolition of the existing commissions dealing with water power and compels their functions to be performed by some one of the major departments of government named in the constitutional amendment just adopted.

State Water Power Authority.
In my message of 1924 and 1925, I advocated a definite, concrete plan. I would ask you to examine again those passages descriptive of the proposed creation of a State Water Power Authority. In conformity with the letter and spirit of the reorganization amendment, the Water Power Authority should be set up in the Conservation Department. I am certain that no sane or even reasonable argument can be made why these great water powers should remain undeveloped when a power agency, a quasi public corporation, municipal in character, without stockholders, can be erected to develop the State's power resources without cost to our taxpayers. Neither the money nor the credit of the State need be pledged. No State bonds will be required. It does not mean that the State is going into the business of dealing in electrical energy. All that is required is that the State itself shall own, control and develop water power at the source.

The people of this State, I am satisfied, are against further inroads on our natural resources by private capital when such resources are capable of development by the State itself, and I urge upon you in the interest of the State and its people your careful consideration of this proposal.

Conservation.
Satisfactory progress has been made in the last year in the forest conservation work of the State. The returns from the joint fishing and hunting licenses adopted last year will soon be available for extending and improving hunting and fishing, for reforestation and for increasing game refuges and hatcheries. It is, however, to be regretted that the purchase of additional land for the forest preserve has been delayed through the absence of available money from the bond issue funds. This program was defeated with the rest of the park program.

One of the important duties of our Conservation Commission is to protect the wild life of the State. Regulations for the taking and the possession of fish and game have heretofore been made by law. It seems to me that the Conservation Department should be given the authority by a general act to make rules and regulations for these matters rather than to have them enacted by statute. It will relieve the Legislature of the necessity of passing upon a multitude of proposals year after year. String size and conditions under which fish may be taken from the waters of the State or from the period when game may be taken.

The Conservation Commission will report to your Honorable Bodies in detail concerning the work of reforestation begun last year. That work should be carried on and I ask of you that you give careful study to that report when it becomes a legislative document.

Agriculture.
For a great many years the promotion of the science of agriculture has been the deep concern of the State. While we lead in industry and manufacture and while we have within our State the most populous centers that the country knows, it is nevertheless the fact that the State of New York is one of the leading agricultural states in the Union and one of our chief industries is dairying.

The State itself is an extensive farm operator. We own and operate about forty farms with a total area of 33,000 acres. They are attached to our several State institutions and are operated for our own benefit and not for profit. Incidentally they are of substantial benefit to the taxpayers because they relieve us of the necessity of purchasing many products that we are able to grow for our own use.

Graduation of Service Taxpayers.
Our Department of Farms and Markets is concerned not alone with help for the farmer, but in the service of what might be called the police power for the eradication of plant and animal diseases. Child laboring off in the eradication of beetles and tubercles. I am informed by the Commissioner of Farms and Markets that in 1925 the greatest progress in the elimination of this disease in the herds of our State has been attained surpassing anything accomplished in any year since the work has been in progress. During the past twelve months over 80,000 herds containing nearly 600,000 cattle have been subjected to a tuberculin test and all tuberculous animals eliminated. Considerably more than one-third of the townships of the State have been completely tested. It is gratifying to note the advance made in a few years when the reputation of New York cattle had fallen so low that many of the states of the country had quarantined against us. In my message of last year I stated that in my opinion our low death rate was due to the care exercised by the State in ridding the herds of the State of tubercular cattle and the work must be carried on as speedily as the department is able to do it properly.

Marketing and Transportation.
One of the grave problems that confronts us today is to secure ready access to all parts of the State for the marketing of produce and for the promotion of commerce. Its solution requires improved State roads, properly regulated public utilities, port development at New York and Albany, and general transportation facilities. If we are to receive the full benefit of our great resources we must give care and attention to this particular field of our business.

Highways.
Improved State highways are a first consideration. For a great many years the State pursued the policy of constructing State highways from the proceeds of the sale of bonds. We have recently changed our financial policy and they are now constructed from money provided from current revenue of the State and there is practically no limit to what could be done if resources were available. While the budget requests of this year will undoubtedly meet current needs as shown by past experience they will fall short of meeting an emergency that has arisen on the outskirts of the cities of New York and Buffalo, which has been occasioned by the recently adopted policy of these two cities in the construction of wide boulevards to take care of ever increasing automobile traffic.

Elimination of Railroad Grade Crossings.
One of the four amendments to the Constitution approved by the people at the last election will enable the expenditure from the proceeds of bonds of three hundred million dollars for the elimination of railroad grade crossings. The Legislature is therefore now in a position to make adequate appropriation from the receipt of the sale of the State's bonds for this purpose in accordance with the provisions of the act. I need not emphasize the necessity for progressing this work as rapidly as possible. The Legislature has the mandate of the people themselves.

Agency for Program.
One phase of the policy to be pursued, I feel I should touch upon in this message and that is to urge a careful study by the Legislature of an agency for the carrying out of the constitutional amendment.

Home Rule.
Each year that passes demonstrates the soundness of the principle of Home Rule for local authority in matters which are purely local. The passage of the constitutional amendment and the sustaining legislation has lifted a great burden from the Legislature. There is, however, a disposition to pass legislation affecting both salary and personnel in the county offices of the five counties that make up Greater New York. It is the only part of the State that is interfered with by State legislation in these purely local matters. It is true that certain salaries in the county offices in Greater New York are now fixed by law. In that event, a single enactment should be passed which would transfer the power to change or alter these salaries to the governing body of the City of New York. The present practice of salary fixing from Albany is indefensible and should be stopped.

State Census.
The Constitution of the State requires the Secretary of State to make a census of our population every ten years in order to apportion the districts for the election of Senators and Assemblymen. The State Constitution directs that census to be taken midway in a ten-year period between similar work done by the Federal government. I am of the opinion that this State could use the figures of the Federal census for the purpose of legislative apportionment just as well as those of a separate State census. I have no knowledge that the State census has ever served any other purpose and it is exceedingly costly. At your last session for the purpose of making an enumeration of the State you appropriated $1,200,000. By an amendment to the Constitution the necessity for a State enumeration may well be done away with.

Direct Primaries.
After a long and bitter struggle the rank and file of the political parties in this State won for themselves the privilege of nominating their candidates by direct primary.

The principle of direct nomination is either right or wrong. I believe it to be right and I am unable to see how we can justify two different systems for different acts of officials.

I, therefore, recommend that the Election Law be amended to remove the direct nominating system for all elected officials.

A study of statistics for the protection of the health and well-being of women in the home and in industry clearly indicates that we are in the forefront of the commonwealths of the country and securely committed to such statutes as a matter of general State policy. Without departing in the slightest degree from this fixed policy we can, in view of the place now occupied by women in business as well as in public life, prepare ourselves to remove from the laws all unjust discrimination against women. This I believe should be done by specific amendment to existing statutes and I so recommend.

Popular Constitutional Initiative.
The recent overwhelming decision of the people at the polls to bring about reorganization of the government by constitutional amendment demonstrates that the present method for amendment to the Constitution removes that document too far from the immediate control of the people themselves. As far as the public mind is concerned with regard to this amendment, the people were ready years ago to make that change but were unable to register their approval of it. If the Constitution is the people's own law and constitutes their direct mandate, they should be permitted, under proper restrictions, to initiate amendments to the document. To my way of thinking this is a proper democratic proposal and can only be opposed for lack of faith in the ability of the people to understand their own government and to suggest proper amendments to their own Constitution.

Corrupt Practice Act.
For a number of years we have had on the statute books of this State that is known as a Corrupt Practice Act. Among other things it provides for the filing, after election of a complete statement of the amount of money contributed to the various campaign funds and by whom contributed. There is no doubt in my mind that this has served as a check upon the corrupt practices that at one time prevailed in our elections, but I am strongly of the opinion that it does not go far enough. It would be of great assistance to our people in determining whether or not obligations had been incurred by candidates if the law provided that such statements be filed before instead of after election. I recommend legislation to bring this about.

Bi-partisan Boards of Election.
When our forefathers wrote our Constitution, they undoubtedly had in mind a fair and impartial control of the elections and must have believed it to be a safeguard of democratic government. From time to time for partisan advantage, amendments have crept into the law which have had for their purpose a single party control of boards of election in certain counties of the State. Nobody can offer any defense of such a condition. No other reason can exist for it except that one party or one group seeks an advantage by law. I recommend amendment to the law that will remove this favoritism and make the statutes conform to the constitutional intent.

Sequelentennial Celebration.
The year 1926 marks the 150th anniversary of the proclamation of the independence of New York as a free State. The Declaration of Independence passed by the Continental Congress at Philadelphia on July 4, 1776, was adopted by New York at White Plains on July 9th by the Provincial Convention which had been elected by the people for that purpose. The Declaration was sent to all the county committees of the new State to be proclaimed to the people. On July 9th by order of General Washington it was read to each brigade of troops in New York City and vicinity in the hope, as Washington put it, that every officer and soldier would act with fidelity for the peace and safety of his country. The proclamation was received by the American people throughout the State with a renewed enthusiasm for the American cause. It created a new commonwealth out of a colonial dependency and also gave birth to a new nation in the western world.

Our neighboring States—Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont—are making preparations for commemorating the Sequelentennial. The historic and patriotic societies of the State and the people generally look to the government to make provision for a suitable celebration throughout the State during 1926. The regents of the university, by action of a special committee, reported a program. I respectfully call your attention to it and suggest that you give it your careful consideration.

Executive and Legislative Co-operation.
To the best of my ability I have laid before you the problems that I believe to be pressing us for solution. As our session progresses, I will trespass upon your time to the extent of communicating with you further should there be any change in the status of the subjects already spoken of or should anything new arise.

My faith in the recommendations I make in this message is grounded in the belief that they serve the best interests of all the people of our State.

For complete success there must be co-operation. I, therefore, urge you to give it to me. I would like every member of the Legislature to feel free to confer with me at any time in relation to any of the subjects in this message or any other matter that may be of interest to the State and its people. I would be glad to meet with committees from the Legislature at any time. I would welcome an invitation from either or both of your honorable bodies to address you in person or to be publicly questioned by you at any time during the session on any recommendations which I have made or may hereafter make.

ONLY ONE ARMY OFFICER IN FOUR IS WEST POINTER

Number Commissioned From Civil Life Far Exceeds Total of Academy Graduates.

Washington—Hardly more than one officer out of four in the regular army and Philippine scouts is a West Pointer, and the number commissioned direct from civil life exceeds the total of academy graduates.

These figures are disclosed in the annual report of Maj. Gen. Robert C. Davis, adjutant general of the army, made public. It fixes the total regular active commissioned force on June 30, this year, at 14,850 for the two branches, with enough retired and reserve men on active duty to bring the grand total up to 12,612. Of that number, 3,262 are West Point graduates, 8,890 came from civil life, 2,644 from the officers' reserve corps, and 1,004 from the enlisted ranks of the regulars. National Guard volunteers or some other branch of the service.

The total enlisted strength was 127,254, of which 96,695 were on duty in continental United States. To maintain the force, 45,553 recruits were necessary during the year, of whom more than 92 per cent were native-born Americans. General Davis figures that it costs $38.58 per man to gather recruits, including those for the Philippine scouts.

The report reiterates army objections to the one-year enlistments authorized by Congress and shows that departmental policy has limited acceptance of men under this provision to those needed for specific purposes in a particular locality where no important transportation cost was involved.

During the year the strength of the officers' reserve corps jumped from 51,709 to 95,151. More than 4,000 new reserve officers were obtained from the training corps graduates and the civilian training camps added another 500.

A plea for preservation of 100-year-old army records that are dropping to pieces from much handling is made by the adjutant general in his report. They cover the regular army for the period of 1812-1912, including original muster rolls of the regiments.

"Their gradual disintegration will continue until they shall have literally fallen to pieces, unless the constant handling to which they have been subjected can be obviated through transcribing all information which they contain upon index-record cards," General Davis warned.

Chicago Judge Proves He's Friend of the Men

Recently Judge Harry Lewis of Chicago announced a divorce case policy of "no child, no alimony." Now Judge John J. Lupo of the domestic court of Chicago, pictured above, declares his approval of this policy. "There is no reason why men should support women all their lives. If the women have not earned the right to be by making good homes, by being paid and helpmates, and by having children," says he.

Police Restore Life to Infant With Lung Motor

Milwaukee.—Two patrolmen restored life to an infant which had stopped breathing here after it was born by working over it for an hour and thirty-five minutes with a lung motor. The baby, a boy, born to Mr. and Mrs. Christ Hoffmann, their home, was normal and was not in a moment after birth it stopped breathing. For thirty minutes nurses and doctors worked over the child. Then police were called. They used the lung motor and restored life to the child.

Cat Reveals $3,000

Hobart, N.Y.—John J. O'Connell, Elmer Brown's cat, has the $3,000 antique watch here. The cat made a leap for a dark corner and jumped head first into a small box. Its head stuck. After a while the cat was Mr. Brown was forced to break the case to find the cat. O'Connell says the value of $3,000 dropped to the floor.

Wide Variety of Topics for Farmers' Week in February—Some of the Speakers.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Comprehensiveness is the key-note of the program of Cornell's rural education department of the nineteenth annual Farmers' Week, February 8-13.
Members of the staff will discuss everything from education in Porto Rico to shadow-boxing by squirrels.
The first topic will be handled by Prof. G. A. Works, head of the department, who has been in Porto Rico during December as a member of a commission to study the educa-by Prof. E. L. Palmer, who is responsible for the "Rural School Leaflet," known all over New York state.

Between these two extremes are such topics as the value of psychology in rural school work, the parent-teacher-association, the activities of the rural school and trends in rural elementary education, boys' and girls' clubs, and the junior high school in rural communities.
Mrs. Frederick M. Hosmer of Au-with special reference to the work of their local organizations.

Mrs. Mildred Close, a school teacher of North Lansing, will de-

Dr. E. N. Ferriss, also of Cornell will tell what the junior high school has to offer to the rural community, how it has developed and what it really is, with the advantage it brings to rural children.

Nutty Natural History

BY HUGH HUTTON.

THE HOOPSNAIL DEER.

The hoopsnail deer, which formerly was quite plentiful around Jackson's Hole, Wyoming, is named from the peculiar whooping-cough sound with which it calls its young.
The fawns, imitating the hoopsnails found in the vicinity, pass the time by taking their tails in their mouths and whirling at an amazing speed.
Hunters become so dizzy that they fall to hit them, but by the time the tails are worn off, the adult deer, not having learned to be wary, fall an easy prey to the hunters.

We are here shown one of the few tailless adult deer that has survived, having single and double peasants for head and body. Ears are popcorn and horns are gloves, and the legs are made of toothpicks.
This deer is fastened together with chewing gum.

Famous Cow Wins Gold Medal

Sophie's Ethna, a granddaughter of Sophie 19th of Hood Farm, the world's champion for lifetime production, all breeds, has already shown that she is a worthy descendant of one of the greatest dairy cows of all time. She is now on her seventh Register of Merit test and producing between 70 and 80 pounds of butter-fat per month. In the six official tests which she has already completed she has made a series of remarkably good records.

In the test which she has just completed Sophie's Ethna produced 77 pounds of butter-fat and 14,099 pounds of milk in 365 days. This gives her milk an average test of 5.23% fat. She carried calf for 202 days of the test and qualified for the American Jersey Cattle Club Gold Medal.

This distinguished producer now has the following string of records to her credit:

Age	Yrs. Mos.	Fat lbs.	Milk lbs.	Days.
2	5	342.53	6106	365
3	8	635.21	11349	365
5	0	627.07	11758	365
6	2	674.65	13400	365
7	5	769.81	15713	365
9	1	737.93	14029	365

Average 631.27 11738

Her sire, the Gold and Silver Medal bull, Pogs 99th of Hood Farm, now has 110 tested daughters and 31 proven sons in the Register of Merit. Sophie's Ethna is owned by W. R. Kennan, Jr., of Randolph Farm, Lockport, N. Y., and her recent tests were made in his herd.

SAN JOSE SCALE.

Winter Months Good Time to Look For Pest.

The San Jose scale is again making serious inroads into New York orchards, according to the entomologists of the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. The great activity of nurserymen and orchardists in combating the scale several years ago practically eliminated the pest as a menace to fruit growing in this state. Lately, however, vigilance has been relaxed to the extent that the scale is again becoming a serious problem in many orchards.

Fruit growers are urged by the station officials to be on the lookout for badly infested trees as they prune their orchards this winter. The twigs and small branches of severely infested trees have a grayish, scummy look which may extend even to the main branches. By marking such trees special attention can be given to them when the spraying is done later on.

Spraying with lime-sulfur at a strength of one part lime-sulfur to eight parts of water early in the spring just as the buds begin to swell will hold the scale in check. It is said, "Trees which have been marked as having a heavy infestation should receive extra careful spraying in the spring."

Root Stocks Make Apple Variations

Bigger and Better Fruit Goes Farther Than Bud Grafts—Tree Itself Responsible for "Boasters."

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 6.—"Trees that have bigger and better apples than other trees do not have them because of bud variation, but because of inherent differences in the root stocks upon which the trees are grafted."

So says Prof. Oskamp, of the state college of agriculture, here. "Apple growers are familiar with these individual variations between trees growing under identical orchard conditions, and there has been much speculation on them."

"This fact is of importance," says Prof. Oskamp, "for it is responsible for some of the so-called boasters, or low-producing trees to be found in almost any orchard. A good sized nursery tree is an insurance that the stock is one that should grow well and rapidly."

"As good growth, so far as our information goes, is the foremost consideration in developing a successful orchard, good sized nursery trees will probably solve to a considerable degree the stock problem and remove the cause of many low producing trees. The grower is, therefore, safe in demanding well-grown, medium to large yearling or two-year-old trees for planting."

Prof. Oskamp urges early orders from nurseries, as he points out that trees cannot be grown in a jiffy, and that it is a case of "first come, first served" in the matter of desirable stock and choice of varieties.

AGRICULTURE.
Farmers' Week dates are February 8-13. Going to Cornell?

The value of New York farms is estimated at nearly two billion dollars.

Uncle Ab says starting the New Year right sometimes means finishing up the old year well.

Sleighs built to track with standard tread wagons and automobiles would be a big help in keeping roads open in the winter.

The wise feeder knows that hunger is the best sauce, and that his stock will gain faster if they are always able to eat just a little more than he gives them.

Have you ordered your fruit trees for spring planting? It's never too early to do this, and it will soon be too late to be sure of the selection of varieties that you want. Good-sized yearling trees are best.

Each farmer cannot raise the price of milk to suit himself, but he can make more money by cutting costs.

"Reducing the feed cost of milk production" is all that the name implies, and can be had by asking the state college at Ithaca for E 118.

BEEKEEPERS TO STUDY
THEIR JOB AT CORNELL.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 6.—All that has been given at previous beekeeping short courses will be covered during the first three days of the course to be held this year January 25-28. This is the seventh of these yearly one-week sessions which beekeepers from all New York state attend.

On Monday and Tuesday, January 25 and 26, the year's work of the beekeeper will be gone over, starting with the fall management of the apiary. The different types of wintering and their advantages come next; colony growth in the spring is taken up; and the handling of the crop completes the cycle of the year's operations. Swarming and its control will be discussed.

On Wednesday, January 27, says Dr. E. F. Phillips, professor of agriculture here, "we begin our big drive on bee disease. Dr. A. P. Sturtevant, bee disease bureau, investigator of the United States bureau of entomology, and R. B. Willson, extension apiculturist of the state college, will both talk on American foulbrood, one of the biggest foes of New York state beekeeping."

"George S. Demuth, editor of 'Gleanings in Bee Culture,' will be on the program, as is George H. Rea, apiculturist from Pennsylvania State College. A paper by C. P. Dand, editor of the 'American Bee Journal,' will be presented."

"The regular University lecture hour is being given on Thursday evening, January 28, to Dallas Lore Sharp, formerly professor of English at Boston University, and an amateur beekeeper of years' experience. He will speak on the 'Spirit of the Hive.' The evening during the week will be largely given over to social events and general informal good times."

State Farmers Pool Their Wool

Syracuse, Jan. 6.—Sheep growers of New York state sold through a state pool over $10,000 pounds of wool in 1925. It was announced here today at the office of the New York State Sheep Growers' Cooperative Association, Inc. The 1925 pool exceeded the 1924 pool by about 140,000 pounds, records show.

All the wools, consigned to the pool have been sold by the association direct to manufacturers with the exception of a few fleeces of Delaine, 1/2 blood combing and some fine buck fleeces. The prices received by the association were about the same in 1925 as in the previous year.

The growers will receive checks for their wool during January. Under the pool system the wools are graded at the association warehouse in this city and the growers receive the same pool price for wool of the same kind and quality. A very nominal amount is taken by the association for handling, warehousing and marketing the wool.

The New York State Sheep Growers' Cooperative Association is regarded as one of the most successful cooperative organizations of the east.

Farm Woodlot Replaces Coal

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 6.—The farm woodlot is yielding up fuel for many communities suffering from a lack of hard coal, and in some sections hard wood is bringing five to eighteen dollars a cord. Evidence that many households would rather use hard wood than soft coal is seen in the numerous requests received at the Federal Land Bank here from farmer mortgagees for permission to cut wood to supply nearby towns with fuel.

Officers of the bank point out that not only may farmers of New York, New England and New Jersey secure good returns for labor and time spent in marketing extra fuel wood this winter, but they may render a direct service in supplying wood to replace hard coal. They state that inasmuch as a cord of average fuel hard wood equals a ton of coal in heating value, wood at fifteen to eighteen dollars a cord will not be out of line, especially if hard coal when obtainable brings the high prices of three years ago.

According to the bank records many farmer-borrowers of the Federal Land Bank have considerably reduced their mortgage indebtedness during previous years through sale of forest products. The bank gives prompt attention to requests from borrowers to cut wood and timber and usually arranges with the farmer-borrower for a payment of a part of the proceeds to be applied as a reduction on his loan.

"It is safe to predict," said a bank officer, here today, "that not only will the average farmer cut more fuel wood than usual this Fall and Winter but that many who have not cut during the past years will market a considerable amount."

"Northeastern farmers are especially well situated to aid in supplying this demand for fuel. Transportation is excellent and distances to nearby centers of population are not excessive. The urban population is very dense in this section of the United States. All of these favorable factors place the farmers of this section in a position to perform a real service that will also be remunerative. Most farm woodlots will bear considerable thinning."

HIGHLAND PLAYERS ENJOY TURKEY DINNER HERE.

The Highland players and some friends who gave "The Deacon's Chair" so successfully three weeks ago in several nearby towns, celebrated Monday evening, January 4, by having a turkey dinner which was most bountifully served at the Advance Restaurant in Kingston. After dinner dancing was enjoyed until midnight, when a happy crowd of 35 returned to Highland in Harry Elliot's bus.

In the spring the players expect to give another play.

Installation of O. E. S. Officers

Installation of officers of Kingston Chapter, No. 185, O. E. S., both elective and appointive, was held Tuesday evening in Masonic Hall, corner Strand and Broadway. The hall was filled to overflowing with members of the chapter and visiting members of the order from other chapters. Before the installation ceremonies were held a very interesting review of the year's outstanding events was given by the historian, Miss Lena Kohler. The retiring matron also submitted her report which showed the chapter to be in a very flourishing condition, financially as well as a large increase in membership.

Flowers and gifts both numerous and costly were presented to the retiring matron, Mary E. Van Valkenburgh, by the officers and friends. The retiring patron, David W. Boyd, was also presented with gifts, one of which was a beautiful Masonic ring, the gift of the chapter.

The officers were then installed in a very creditable manner by Past Patron Edgar W. Powley assisted by Mrs. Mary E. Van Valkenburgh as grand marshal and David W. Boyd as assistant grand marshal and Miss Elizabeth Wilson as grand chaplain.

The following were the officers installed, both elective and appointive:

Mrs. Minnie Neebe, worthy matron; Mrs. Anna I. Lauren, associate matron; Pearl H. Carey, worthy patron; Mrs. Edith A. D. Potter, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger, secretary; Miss Gertrude Smith, conductress; Mrs. Lena M. Gildersleeve, associate conductress; Miss Elizabeth Wilson, chaplain; Mrs. Marian Hadler, marshal; Mrs. Jane Richter, historian; Miss Mary McCullough, organist; Mrs. Jennie R. Sutton, warder; Mrs. Florence Parr, Adah; Miss Margaret Lencke, Ruth; Mrs. Florence Schoonmaker, Esther; Mrs. Emma Bishop, Martha; Miss Ethel Salzman, Elctia; Miss Lena Kohler, color bearer; George Main, sentinel; David W. Boyd, trustee.

The newly installed matron Mrs. Minnie Neebe, gave a very impressive address, after which she was presented with beautiful flowers and gifts from friends.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

CAROL'S RENUNCIATION

A POLITICAL GESTURE

Paris, Jan. 6.—Prince Carol's renunciation of his rights to the throne of Roumania was not done for the sake of love but was simply a political gesture, according to Le Matin, which today published an interview with the prince.

"The government is hostile to me," the prince stated, "and I will eventually renounce the throne. But that will not be an act of capitulation but a signal for a contest between two political conceptions."

Prince Carol eulogized Fascism, asserting that "modern life had lost its sense of discipline."

Prelate's Condition Unsatisfactory.

Brussels, Jan. 6.—The condition of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, who recently underwent an operation was less satisfactory, physicians declared today. The prelate has suffered from a slight heart weakness.

Antofagasta, Chile, Jan. 6.—Demi-mondaines held a mass meeting in a public square here today to protest against the new law closing all houses of ill fame. Police dispersed the meeting.

London, Jan. 6.—The signs of the Zodiac are being used as a decoration for fashionable gowns and hats. The signs generally relate to the wearer's horoscope and are embroidered in gay colors.

Big Invasion of Foreign Racers

If Foreigners Live Up To Past Performance Season of 1925 May Have New Records To Hang.

New York, Jan. 6.—Every indication at the moment is that running "on the boards" this season will enjoy its era of greatest prosperity, exceeding even the 1924-25 campaign when Nurmi took the country by storm. He was only one man and, for the most part, he ran only one race a night.

What, then, may be the expected reaction to an athlete who dallies with records in the pole vault, middle distance runs and broad jump? Such a man is Charley Hoff, of Norway, who will come here for the indoor season in company with Huber Houben, a great German sprinter; Adrian Paulsen, the Dutch middle distance, and George Goodwin, the English walker. The latter is the only foreign entry whose anticipated arrival can be viewed without emotion.

Co-Star With Nurmi. Hoff probably would have been the co-star with Nurmi of the last Olympic games if it hadn't been for an injured heel. He held the world's record for the pole vault at the time and afterward raised it to 13 feet 1 1/2 inches. His best precluded participation in the vault; also in the running broad jump, in which he has bettered 24 feet.

Even handicapped as he was, he reached the finals of the great 800-metre event, but was shut out.

That's the kind of a mouth organ the American field will have to reckon with this winter. If he takes to the boards at all, he probably can beat any of our quarter-mile and will step with the best of them in the half. And even if unfamiliar conditions prevent him from vaulting to form, there is no reason to believe that he won't be able to top the world's indoor record of 13 feet.

Houben beat Paddock and Murchison several times, but little has been seen of him in international competition because of the anti-German feeling that prevailed after the war. He is an oddity of the track—a left-footed starter—and comes out of his holes as fast as any man in the game. What he will be able to do with small spikes on the boards remains to be seen but that he will be an interesting performer is taken for granted.

In A Special Race.

Paulsen's lone start in this country was a special 600-yard race at Travers Island last summer. There he ran right over our best, Helfrich, Marstela and Holden, in the stretch to win very impressively. He, too, may be handicapped indoors because of his inclination to run high.

Still, anyone with the records of Houben and Paulsen will be dangerous until they become acclimated to indoor conditions. After that, they might be unbeatable.

In any case, with four champion invaders competing almost meet to meet, it either will be the greatest indoor season in history or John L. Sullivan was a French Canadian.

Milligan-Walker Bout Cancelled

State Athletic Commission Calls Off Welterweight Match Between Mickey Walker and Tommy Milligan Scheduled For January 22.

(By Davis J. Walsh).

New York, Jan. 6.—Mickey Walker's name was linked with mystery today while the backstage gossip dictated the New York State Athletic Commission's latest edict, whereby the welterweight champion was read right out of his proposed title shot with Tommy Milligan, of England, on January 22.

It was freely alleged that the commission, while admittedly venting its spleen because of Walker's run out on the Christmas fund show, really had the drop on the champion. The board claimed that a lack of championship condition was the answer and inferred that it drew its conclusion from the fact that Walker complained of an infected toe a month ago.

Just why an infection of the past should be deemed of necessity a liability of the present was not made clear.

Neither was several other details, including the fact that Walker left these parts recently on a mysterious mission and remained away nearly a month. He was accompanied only by Teddy Hayes and their destination was said to be one of the lumber camps of the north woods, where the champion was to work himself into fighting condition.

This was only a comparatively few days after his bout with Sailor Freedman in which Walker gained the popular decision. At the time, ringside critics agreed that the champion either was off form or that he had slipped back from the speed he knew several years ago.

Hayes and Walker returned about ten days ago, coincident with the arrival of Jack Kearns from the west, and it was announced that Mickey would go into immediate training at a local gymnasium. Inquiry there today uncovered the surprising information that Walker had not been near the place yet.

A telephone call to the Shrewsbury River Country Club at Rumson, N. J., where Walker trained for the Shade bout, revealed the fact that Walker had not been there yesterday but that he was expected for a work out today. He couldn't have known of the commission's edict at the time, yet either was training in private or not at all, with a championship bout scheduled only two weeks in advance.

Kearns, when reached today, said Walker was in excellent condition and that he would prove it when he took the champion before the commission on Friday.

"What's the difference," said one of the Broadway crowd. "He can lick Milligan, anyhow."

The commission, however, seems to disagree and for the very excellent reason that it says it won't give him the chance.

ADOLFO LUQUE LED NATIONAL LEAGUE PITCHERS

New York, Jan. 6.—In spite of the fact that he lost more games than he won, Adolfo Luque, of the Cincinnati Reds, led the National League pitchers during the 1925 season in the matter of earned runs per game, according to the official averages made public today.

Opposing clubs got only 2.63 earned runs a game against Luque's pitching, the Cuban being one of two pitchers who bettered an average of three runs a game. The other was Eppa Rixey, a team mate, who turned in an average of 2.83. Luque won 16 games and lost 18.

Germany Wants to Join League.

Three Contests At Epworth Hall

Three good matches are scheduled for Epworth Hall fans this coming week end. On Friday night the Clinton Independents will meet the K. H. S. Second team which lost to the Clinton Seniors on the same ground a week ago by a bare three point margin.

Two unusually good matches are booked for Saturday. In the afternoon the strong Hedding Street team of Poughkeepsie will be the guests of the Clinton Independents. Hedding is now standing second place in the Church League in the Bridge City.

The Wurts Street Baptist outfit which was defeated by the Clinton Seniors two weeks ago will use an entirely new and much stronger team against the Seniors, Saturday evening. This is expected to result in a tight affair as the Baptist lads are bound to even up for their past defeat.

K. H. S. to Play At Middletown

Middletown High School, a court outfit which has fared the same fate as K. H. S. this season in the Duso League, although the Middies have suffered in a somewhat different manner, will be the local team's opponent Friday.

In this third league match of the season the Coach O'Leary's men will travel to Middletown to mix up with their opponents on their home court. The Middies have been defeated by both Poughkeepsie and Port Jervis. In their first match of the season the grid champions found it quite a task to trim the Middletowners by a 23 to 20 score. When the Bridge City tried to make their pilgrimage to Middletown they had no trouble at all, trouncing their rivals by a 36 to 14 tally.

Unless some unlucky or otherwise sort of a break looms up in front of the Maroon and White Friday they will have all the chance in the world to grab this Kingston-Middletown tilt.

In a match in which K. H. S. was way off color, making only two fields the entire game, Poughkeepsie trimmed the locals by a 19 to 13 score. The Poughkeepsies trounced the Middies by a 22 point margin, while only 7 markers spanned the result of the Poughkeepsie-Kingston match. Consequently from the angle of comparative score the locals have big advantage over the Middletown ball tossers.

As the local school battles in Middletown, Port Jervis will match its skill with the Newburgh Academy outfit on the latter's court.

FIRPO AND PAOLINO MUST MAKE GOOD

New York, Jan. 6.—In a statement made public today, Tex Rickard declared that Lulu Firpo would have to fight his way back into popular favor before the promoter would give him another big bout and that Paolino, soon to arrive from France, would have to make good immediately against one of the big timers or take the consequences.

The promoter declared that Paolino would be offered a bout with either Harry Wills or Gene Tunney on his arrival and if he failed to make good, would be discarded as a heavyweight prospect.

DUSO League Meets Thursday

Kingston High School's basketball future as far as the DUSO League is concerned will probably be mapped out Thursday morning when all the superintendents of schools of the various schools entered in the league join in a grand conclave at Poughkeepsie.

The only local representative who will attend this meeting will be Dr. M. J. Michael, Coach O'Leary or any of the league coaches not being invited to this pow-wow.

It is thought at this meeting that Kingston's league grievances, which have resulted from the Poughkeepsie and Newburgh matches will be discussed. If Coach O'Leary's contention that a neutral referee should be used in all league games is not upheld at this meeting it is very likely that K. H. S. will withdraw from the court race.

Mexican Laws Augur Trouble

Tension Between U. S. and Calles Government at Breaking Point Over Alien Land and Oil Laws in Mexico.

Washington, Jan. 6.—A "new Mexican situation," this time fraught with disturbing possibilities, is the subject of intense concern by the administration. It was learned in official circles today.

The promulgation of the new alien land and oil laws in Mexico has strained the tension between the United States and the Calles government almost to the breaking point.

It was asserted, although officials were chary of making predictions as to the ultimate outcome.

It may be that the United States will withdraw recognition of the present government in Mexico. That contingency was being discussed by advisers of the administration.

It may be that nothing more will come of it than another "warning" like the memorable one of last spring, about which the folk at the Mexican embassy are still talking. That seems the stronger likelihood to the diplomatic set here.

But one thing is certain in the opinion of the Latin-American experts. The month will not close before old bugaboos, a "Mexican situation" pokes its head into the front pages again.

Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, believes that the affair will be heavy with serious possibilities.

"It may lead to considerable trouble," he told International News Service today.

President Coolidge considers the present conversations with Mexico are of a "very delicate nature."

The present bone of contention is the far reaching effects of these land and petroleum laws, promulgated a day or two ago by the Mexican government, over the protests of the state department.

Headings of American citizens, raising into the hundreds of millions of dollars, as well as equally valuable property of other foreign investors in Mexico, are said to be jeopardized by the new laws.

Recent acts of the Mexican capital declare the results of expropriation may prove disastrous to foreign investors thereby keeping from foreign capital out of the rich oil and mineral fields.

Moreover, the critics of the laws declare the anti-foreign features of the acts will be destructive, a principle which the administration contends is in violation of international law.

The disturbing possibilities of the situation were deprecated by Manuel Teller, the Mexican minister. Mexico he said, is perfectly justified in enacting laws that will stop the rising domination of her internal affairs by foreign capital.

"Mexico has taken these steps at this time," said Teller to International News Service, "because it seemed an appropriate moment to express the age old desire by Mexicans to run their own affairs. That feeling dates back to the time of the Spanish conquest. Our new laws are not so strong as similar measures enacted in the United States and other countries."
